The lecture "Research-Based Art / Art-Based Research" and an accompanying research workshop deal with the methods of artistic research and the possibilities of embodying and presenting artistic knowledge. In its structure, it is intended as a temporary platform for exchange and communication in order to discuss and name various methods of artistic research practices and to link them to specific curatorial strategies. The presentation will be based on analysis of 3 research based art exhibitions. Students and other participants will be introduced to various publications and academic networks devoted to art-based research and provided with comprehensive bibliographical suggestions.
